

April 30th 2007

One hazy afternoon

Indeed it happened one hazy afternoon,
I thought of you, thunders clapped,
Thunders remind me of you
You frowned, you smiled, you disappeared in the rain
One hazy afternoon.

I thought of whispering your name, but the thunders
Cut my voice into ripples of lost memory
Ripples from a stone thrown into a still lake,
A lake filled with hidden monsters.

Thunders clapped and the rain started
Rain reminds me of you,
Your scent, your beauty, your smiles
As the rain washed away the pain but left the need
I thought of you,

Thunders clapped.

Payman Abdali